HALL & HUEBEL

The World's Chief Rug Market.

The world's increasing demand for Oriental carpets has caused certain changes in the rug business particularly tending toward an enlarged output through the intervention of merchants in Constantinople and Smyrna, who are establishing factories of Persian carpets in both Turkey and Persia. Another new feature of the rug business is the growing practice on the part of merchants in Constantinople of shipping direct to the United States from Persia instead of from Constantinople. This explains why the shipments of Persian rugs from Constantinople to the United States as consigned at this office show a decrease. On the whole Constantinople maintains its position as the world's principal rug market. German buys Oriental carpets in ever increasing quantities in order to satisfy her own requirements and those of Scandinavia, South Africa and Canada. Hamburg, being a free port, is becoming an important distributing center for Oriental rugs, more or less at the expense of London. It is figured that $1,250,000 worth of Caucasian and Persian rugs are shipped in a year from Constantinople and Smyrna, more than half of which go to Hamburg.

TELLS A STORY OF NIAGARA FALLS FOR CASUAL READERS

Janesville Man Writes Back From East of His Visit To the Great Sight.

Letters from Janesville residents, who are visiting in other parts of the country are always interesting, particularly so, when the writer puts something of their own experience into the tale they tell. In the following description of Niagara Falls, Walter S. Stuart, an employee of the Gazette, who is visiting in the east, gives a new insight into the means and methods of seeing the waters of the Great Lakes drop into the channels that finally lead them to their ocean. Mr. Stuart views the matter in the following manner:

"On the train from Buffalo you are met by an agent of a belt line of trolley cars which circle the Falls and which stop at the different attractions en route. He offers you tickets at the prices of one dollar and fifty cents and one dollar. The former ticket allowing one more feature than the latter, namely, a carriage ride around Goat Island.

"Following is the itinerary of the trip, covering in all about seven miles for the round trip.

"The electric cars are taken from the railroad terminal and cross the Niagara river at a point about a quarter of a mile below the Falls. Across the river they turn toward the Horse-shoe Falls and a stop is given at Table Rock Observatory. Here you climb to the top, about one hundred feet, and can secure a very good view of the Falls and the surrounding country. Even at that height the spray that arises from the torrents of water plunging to the rocks below reaches.

"Up there is another chance to buy something—tickets at fifty cents each, which they tell you, cover the entire cost of a trip by elevator one hundred and forty feet below the street level, thence two hundred feet below Horse-shoe Falls to the Cave of the Winds.

"In a room below you are provided with a rubber macintosh with a hood and a pair of rubber shoes if you are a lady; a pair of rubber trousers, coat with hood and rubber overshoes if a gentleman. In the room for the ladies as well as for in the room for gentlemen are placards reading 'Visitors are expected to leave change for service.' The service rendered consists of the checking of hats and the indication to the hook on which your size rubber coat hangs. The hat is the only article of apparel left behind.

"Descending about forty feet in a damp little elevator one enters an inclined passageway cut into the rock. Along this passageway are three openings to the face of the cliff near the last of which is one of the smaller falls. Here one receives a good drenching from the spray.

"According to the surface you discard your rubber garments and resume the trip on the car to a point on the river where another stopover is allowed for the purpose of taking a ride on a boat close up to the foot of the Horse-shoe Falls. The current of the river is very strong here and the spray falls around like a heavy rain.

"From here the next point of interest is the 'Whirlpool'—a bend in the river where the course of the rushing water is almost abruptly changed. The water swirls and lashes seemingly exerting every effort to demolish the obstruction in its path.

"At this point the sightseer is informed that 'here is the most marvelous spot in the whole scenery—to miss it were to go away without seeing Niagara. No coat—everything is free. At a point directly over the whirlpool is a projecting rock enclosed within an iron railing, looking straight down, as is necessary, there is nothing in particular to see. However, something is brought to your attention and that is a line of Niagara souvenirs and views, the same being not free.

"From here the journey continues to 'Whirlpool Rapids', and Brock's monument from the top of which an extensive view may be obtained of the surrounding country and of Lake Ontario.

A short distance below the monument the river is crossed and a trip is made to the steamer landing at which the boats from Toronto dock.

"All of the foregoing trip is made on the Canadian side. Returning the route lies along the Niagara river on the United States side. There are no stopovers granted along here and also there are no souvenirs thrust upon the tourist. All along the route on the American side a better view of the falls is obtained as the road is built along the base of the Niagara Gorge and in many places is not more than eight feet from the swirling waters. Niagara always has a holiday aspect. Each train brings in throngs of visitors who do the Falls, who are done by the Falls. But every finger in memory one of the most wonderful—one of the grandest sights in all the world."

"A father (presumably) with his two children of, say, 8 and 10 years, respectively, came up to a penny-in-the-slot weight-testing machine. The weight of one of the kids was taken in the orthodox manner and he turned to come off, 'but the father told him to remain on, at the same time assisting the other kid on to the weighing platform. Then, noting what the dial indicated for the two together, he wrought out, unabashed, a sum in subtraction, and so got the weight of the two for one penny."

"Love and Life."

We find the following tolerably clever description of love in an old magazine, "Love is like the devil, because it torments us, like heaven, because it wraps the soul in bliss; like pepper, because it often sets one on fire; like sugar, because it is sweet; like a rope, because it is often the death of a man; like a prison, because it makes one miserable; like wine, because it makes us happy; like a man, because it is here today and gone tomorrow; like a woman, because there is no getting rid of it; like a beacon, because it guides one to the wished-for port; like a will-o'-the-wisp, because it often runs away with one; like a little pony, because it ambles nicely with one; like the bite of a mad dog or the kiss of a pretty woman, because they both make a man run mad; like a goose, because it is silly; like a rabbit, because there is nothing like it. In a word, it is like a ghost, because it is like everything and like nothing—often talked about, but never seen, touched or understood."

Many Divers at Work.

One or two divers is as many as a person ordinarily sees at one time, but at one of the English naval stations it is frequently possible to see as many as 15 of these men at one time. These are the members of the crews of the British submarines being instructed in the use of safety helmets, with the use of which it is possible to escape from the boat in the event of an accident while submerged. These men, when equipped, have all the appearances of a diver. On one occasion 27 men with their helmets could be seen on the decks of two submarines. This was the occasion of a contest between the crews of the two boats. The men are all at their posts when the lights are extinguished and in the dark they are expected to find and adjust their helmets and get to the deck. The winning crew did it in three minutes and five seconds.

Profitable Trade.

"I thought you sold your automobile?" "No," replied Farmer Cornsod. "I traded the machine off for that horse over there." "But you seem to have both the auto and the horse." "Yes, I made a contract that he was to give me the handle of the machine out every time he got stuck or broke down. Finally he owed me so much that he turned the auto back as part payment."

Work of Chinese Barber.

The Chinese have no use for safety razors. As they have their heads shaved, which must be done by another person, they intrust to him also the removal of the scant hair on the face. For less than 4 cents a Chinese barber shaves a head in the prevailing fashion, combs, plaits and glazes the queue, removes wax from the ears and administers a light massage to neck and shoulders.

Snake Superstitions.

The Sanskrit name for a serpent means "having poison in the eye," that is, the fatal power to kill at a glance. Perhaps from some such notion as this the gratifying superstition arose in Morocco that if a magic rain fell on April 27 and got into the eyes of snakes and scorpions, they would go blind.

Get Much Food from the Sea.

The Chinese will eat anything that comes out of the sea. All the fishes are good to their taste, and are caught with great skill. Seaweeds are used to thicken soup, gravies and puddings, and are highly prized because they give the refreshing flavor of salt, which is a luxury to most Chinese peasants.

Heaven.

In the philosophy of some men heaven is nothing but a place where everybody will be able to buy cheap and sell high.

on Saturday, September 9.

Janesville will be the mid-day stop of a motorcycle run out of Chicago, according to Harry McDaniel, manager of the motor racing department of the Janesville Park association, who was in conference yesterday with one of the officials of the run who was here. As yet the route has not been selected but three pathfinders from Chicago will be here a week from Saturday to select the route. One hundred and fifty or one hundred and sixty motorcycleists will participate in the event, seven clubs being represented in the contest. Through the efforts of Mr. McDaniel, who was in Chicago recently meeting with the officials of the tour, this city will be one of the places the motorists will stop at.

New Whisk Broom.

The motorist who often has the provoking experience of having his clothes spattered with mud will appreciate the new whisk broom which a clever inventor has just brought out. In the handle there is a short, stubby brush made of stiff bristles. This will remove the stubborn spots with a few strokes. One need not be afraid of wearing the material thin or fraying by using this brush. The other end is just an ordinary whisk broom.

Sampson at Gaza.

A familiar story is that of Sampson pulling down the pillars of the temple of Gaza, whereby the roof fell upon the Philistines. How Sampson was able to do this is now known. Excavations on the site of Gaza show that the pillars of the temple were of stone and rested upon foundations of stone without being fastened thereto. The strong man had, therefore, merely to push these pillars off their supporting stones, when down would come the front of the whole building.

Unprofitable Heroism.

Heroism seems to be at a considerable discount in Germany just at present. Four peasants who recently launched a boat on the Lake of Wolzger and rescued some Berlin trippers who were in danger of drowning have been fined two dollars each for trespassing on the lake.

I. C. FACES STRIKE IS REPORT TODAY

Shop Workers Insist On Recognition of Federation Plan of Organization.

MEN FAVOR WALKING OUT

Memphis Business Men Hope to Avert Threatened Rail Walkout—Vote Being Canvassed in Kentucky—Trouble Believed Near.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—Four thousand shop workers employed on the various lines of the Illinois Central railroad have voted to strike by a large majority unless the company recognizes their federation plan of organization. Overtures to obtain this recognition were made a short time ago by several of the leaders of the unions involved, and they were informed that the management of the road would have no dealings with the federation. On account of the determined stand taken by both sides it was predicted that a walkout will take place unless a common ground for the granting of concessions is found.

Canvassing the Vote.
The vote of the workers is being canvassed in Paducah, Ky., and out of 80 per cent. of the ballots so far received, 75 per cent. has been registered in favor of a strike.

The voting will end today, and when the result has been tabulated negotiations will be begun with the company at once with a view of effecting a settlement.

In the event that this attempt ends in failure, it is declared, a strike order will be issued by officers of the unions connected with the federation.

The employees involved include car workers, machinists, boiler-makers, sheet metal workers and blacksmiths.

Has Many Members.

The federation is a branch of the railroad department of the American Federation of Labor organized several years ago. According to its officials, it is backed by trade unions having a numerical strength of 600,000 throughout the country.

Officials of the Illinois Central expressed the opinion that a strike cannot be regarded as imminent.

"Our present relations with the shop employees are harmonious, and we have yet to be convinced that the intervention of this new federation would help matters any," said one officer of the Illinois Central.

Memphis Takes Action.

Committees were named in Memphis, Tenn., by the Business Men's club, Cotton Exchange, Merchants' exchange and other commercial organizations of Memphis to act jointly as conciliators in the controversy pending between the management of the Illinois Central railroad and allied lines and their employees. Resolutions were adopted setting forth the effect of a strike at this time would have on business conditions and appealing to both parties to adjust their differences amicably.

DREAM FORECAST REED DEATH

Canton (Mass.) Woman Prophesied Chicago Writer's Suicide.

Canton, Mass., Aug. 24.—The day before Myrtle Reed McGilough, the author, killed herself in Chicago a group of members of the Ciceronian club here, composed of society people, discussed here suicide. It came about through a remarkable dream of Miss Susan George, a member of the club.

Myrtle Reed's books formed the topic for discussion at the club meeting. Miss George remarked: "I am afraid you soon will see an account of Myrtle Reed's death in the papers." The statement brought forth a chorus of inquiries and elicited the story of the queer dream the young woman had the night previous.

MADERO SHOWS IRON HAND

Says Looters Must Return Stolen Goods or Die.

Chauhtlay, Morelos, Mex., Aug. 24.—That Francisco I. Madero's method of restoring peace is not lacking in virility was indicated when, as a result of his visit to Jofutla, notices were posted stating that looters would be given just one day to return stolen property; that failure to so do would result in trial by court martial, whose judgment probably would be death.

In Jofutla Madero inspected the work of mobs whose members are said to have been bandits rather than Zapatistas. Most of the larger stores have been looted.

Great Round-Up of Elk.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Aug. 24.—A round-up of 25,000 or 30,000 elk in the Jackson Hole country has begun. Under the leadership of Edward Beck and Ray Hester, cowboys, and other persons from Washington and central Idaho points are here helping to drive the elk to other sections where there is better range.

Celebrates 103d Birthday.

New London, Conn., Aug. 24.—In full possession of her faculties and able to go about without assistance, Mrs. Mary Anne Peterson of this city celebrated the completion of her one hundred and third year. Her memory is excellent and she recalls vividly many events of ninety years ago.

STORK'S VISITS DELAY REST

Colorado Millionaire's Retirement Put Off Fifteen Years by Pledge.

Colorado Springs, Colo., Aug. 24.—Retirement from business, delayed for 15 years by six visits of the "stork" to his home, has come to W. S. Jackson, a pioneer financier of this city. Fifteen years ago Mr. Jackson declared he would not retire until he had $1,000,000 for each of his children. Now Mr. Jackson has amassed a fortune of more than $5,000,000 and has determined to retire. He has sold his interest in the El Paso National bank.

Mr. Jackson's first wife was Helen Hunt, author of "Ramona" and other novels.

HITS ASTOR-FORCE MARRIAGE

Pennypacker Says Wedding Would Be Disgrace.

Philadelphia, Aug. 24.—The approaching wedding of Miss Madeline Force and Col. John Jacob Astor of New York meets with the disapproval of former Governor Pennypacker, who terms it "disgraceful."

Pennypacker's reference to the affair was made during a talk on the need of uniform state divorce laws. He said the wedding would set a harmful example.

From my own personal viewpoint," said Pennypacker, "I think the proceedings are disgraceful."

ODD ACT BY GERMAN SHIP

Arrives in Buzzard's Bay and Prepares for Torpedo Practice There.

New Bedford, Mass., Aug. 24.—The German cruiser Bremen arrived in Buzzard's bay and it was announced will conduct torpedo practice in the bay. A tug has been engaged here to assist in the maneuvers. Considerable local speculation has been caused as to the right of a foreign warship thus to indulge in military operations in United States waters. Washington dispatches show, however, that such practice in foreign waters is permissible.

TO PROBE COCKTAIL CHERRY

Government Experts Says Misbranding of "Trimmings" is Violation.

Washington, Aug. 24.—The question "what is whiskey?" having been answered officially by a presidential ruling, the pure food experts of the department of agriculture now have taken up one of the other component parts of the seductive cocktail and have propounded the query, "What is a Maraschino cherry?"

Holding that Maraschino cherries should be bottled in Maraschino liquor and not in a compound of benzaldehyde, oil of almonds and glucose, the government asked for the seizure and condemnation of 15 cases of what it claims are only imitations of real Maraschinos.

The label was filed in the district supreme court here.

BOY ON WAY TO CHICAGO

Minneapolis Lad Who Has Father's Auto Said to Have Found 'Angel.'

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 24.—Interview was added to the escapade of Charles Fenton Welsh when it was reported that the youth had picked up "a pal with a roll." "Flashing Fenton" as the boy was designated, left Minneapolis more than a week ago in an automobile owned by his father, L. D. Welsh. At his side was a rifle. So far as his parents know he had no money.

Pursuit of the boy led the father to near by lakes, but always the lad was a little way ahead of him.

OPERATE ON PRINCE JAIME

Son of Spanish Ruler Has Throat Trouble.

Fribourg, Switzerland, Aug. 24.—An operation was performed at the Laryngological clinic by Doctors Raymond and Grinda on Prince Jaime, the second son of King Alfonso of Spain, for the relief of a nose and throat affection. It is said the operation was successful and it is believed a permanent cure will be effected.

Morges, Switzerland, Aug. 24.—Fire destroyed Ignace Paderowski's poultry establishment here. Poultry were somewhat startled three years ago when Mme. Paderowski paid a record price of $7,500 for a rooster and three hens to Ernest Kellens-trauss, a Kansas City breeder.

Herring Will Lead the Eagles.

San Francisco, Aug. 24.—Frank E. Herring of South Bend, Ind., was nominated for grand worthy president of the Grand Aerie of Eagles and William J. Brumman of Pittsburgh for grand worthy vice-president, there being no other nominations for those offices.

MUMPS AND BUMPS.

Mumps and bumps, like and epochs await him. The former is only one of many diseases disputing his path or dogging his unsuspecting footsteps. Millions of microbes infect the air and the water, and certain squads of them have been detailed to concentrate their whole attention on him.

But his epochs are experiences which no vigilance of parents or physicians or teachers can protect him against. Every psychologist in our country and in foreign countries has said so. And so it is. They have prepared these entertainments for him along the way and their invitation is mandatory. He has to pass over the bumps, as Major Powell had to pass over the rapids of the Colorado river, in exploring the Grand canyon.

Now let us try to get a line on each of those epochs and see just what it means, at the same time harking back to our own early days for verification. Three general periods are clearly distinguishable—infancy from birth to six; childhood, from six to twelve; adolescence, from twelve to twenty-two, or maturity. Then there are little turning points within these periods, so that we can say there are at least seven stages of his road to manhood. The bounds are fixed only in a general way, for we know that one boy may be seven or eight years in reaching the six years stage. Notice more in detail:

1. Babyhood proper, from birth to three years. Several clear marks are seen. Every action is automatic at first. Senses connect up with the outside world; slowly, sights and sounds and odors are identified. Imitation is the regnant law. He smiles and laughs and frowns in answer to your smiles and laughter and frowns. He is impatient or loving as you are. He does it automatically and it costs you very little. He is careful. It is a golden period with him. Play is his chief diversion, but it is automatic.

Do two things for him. Give him play. Give him something worth imitating.

2. Later infancy, from three to six or seven. Along about seven he is gliding over the first falls, but he will not know what it is, unless he is told, till he goes off to college and studies psychology. Imitation is still the chief law of his life, play is still his chief employment, but it has grown more voluntary. He likes other children, chiefly because he can play with them. By and by, he will play with them mainly because he likes them. The dramatic expression of himself in play is normal. He acts the part of another with pleasure. He prefers to imitate grown men, especially men of might and daring. Without hesitation he takes the part of a soldier, even at that early day, though not wholly lacking in valorous discretion. "When I'm a man, I'm going to be a soldier, mother," said Tommy. "What! and be killed by the enemy?" she asked. "Oh, well, then, I guess I'll be the enemy," was his discreet decision. During these years, he has the same two needs—plenty of play; something worth imitating and that something a person.

3. Early childhood, from six to about nine. He has just finished the period of greatest physical activity of his whole life. It has been a period of instincts and impulses, working automatically. Now he is ready to sail out on new waters. He has great accumulations of power, in his muscles and in his memory. Memory has stores for thought and a different kind of impulses; play becomes more complex and business like; habit comes to his aid to conserve what he has already acquired; he begins to see the distinctions between right and wrong with his own perceptions and not through example alone. He needs authority now—clear, accurate, unshakable, yet sympathetic.

4. Later childhood, from nine to twelve. His absorptive power is very active. He absorbs food and truth and love and ideas. Play gets to be team work. Conscience grows more exacting. Imagination has been at work all along, creative imagination, seeing things that are yet to be and building a dream life for himself. As nearly as I can remember from my own experience and as well as I can judge, from a certain boy whom I know pretty well, I think the huge making faculty comes on the job in infancy and gets very active in the period we are now considering. Keep his sports honest and his imagination clean.

5. Early adolescence, from twelve to sixteen. The social nature awakes. He is conscious of relationships. Hidden powers and propensities come into his consciousness; will power and judgment rise up. Latent impulses are released. Religious feelings become acute. It is the chum period. Nerves are unsteady. Nutrition is irregular. Hungers are active, for food, for friends, for kindness, for sympathy. His voice shows it. His confused self-consciousness shows it.

6. Maturing adolescence, from sixteen on. The brain is full grown. Intellect takes control. Emotions are restless. Doubts have their day. Personal relations become fixed. After the upheavals, he becomes related and reliable. He needs a true intelligent, sympathetic friend.

MAY CALL NEW STRIKE

Reinstatement of 253 Tramway Men Basks of Trouble.

London, Aug. 24.—The question of the reinstatement of 253 tramway men in Liverpool is made the ground for the threat of a bigger national strike than was the one now being settled.

The 253 men who were employed by the Liverpool Municipal Tramways struck in sympathy with the railway workers. The municipality put other men in their place.

Now that the other disputes in Liverpool have been settled the strike committee insists upon the reinstatement of the men as a condition of the general resumption of work under the settlement agreement. The tramways committee refuses to reinstate the men.

INVENTOR'S WIFE IS LOST

Mrs. Edison Is Traveling in West—Letters Fail to Reach Her.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 24.—While Thomas Edison is discussing aviation with scientists in Paris, Minneapolis officials of the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie railway are searching for Mrs. Edison. Mr. Edison desires to communicate with his wife, and the letters he sent from the French capital to Detroit, where Mrs. Edison had been visiting, did not reach her.

Mrs. Edison started for the Pacific coast shortly after her husband sailed for Paris.

AUTHOR TO DIVORCE WIFE

Writer of the "Jungle" Says Spouse Is Too Friendly With Poet.

New York, Aug. 24.—Upton Sinclair, the author, announced that as soon as he can get in touch with his lawyer and have the necessary legal papers drawn it is his purpose to institute suit for divorce. He says his wife was too friendly with a young western poet who recently was a visitor at the Sinclair summer home at Arden, Del. Mr. Sinclair in 1900 married Meta H. Fuller.

WOMAN'S PAGE

Thought for Today
By MRS. ROBERT M. LAPOLETTE
CRAZY COLUMNS.

HOW AROUND the long columns of description of what women wear at big social functions; Mrs. Brown, black lace over cream satin, diamonds; Mrs. Gray, green chiffon over black satin; and so on.

In a great social gathering in the East, Room of the White House the mingling of colors and light of jewels is fascinating and appeals to the senses like the music and flowers and smiles and hush of voices; but to attempt to carry this impression by a matter-of-fact account of the color and material of the dresses worn by prominent women is nonsense.

A truly beautiful and becoming gown is a work of art. Its color, its line, its general effect, may be as much a part of the picture the wearer makes as her height and the color of her hair and eyes. To that extent the description of women's dress is interesting, just as it is in literature and art. But to give columns to an account of unrelated details is an insult to the intelligence of readers.

Men are excellent judges of the effect of women's dress and we are supposed to spend our time and thought and their money to please them. Yet we cannot assume that these long, crazy columns are published in the hope of holding their subscriptions.

Some women may be small enough to care to know whether the gowns worn were new, or whether they had been worn on previous occasions, but though this meanness of spirit is often ascribed to us, I think very little of it exists among women.

Rightly or wrongly, these senseless descriptions are placed on women's pages because women's interest is supposed to center in them. Let's fool these men publishers and put our time on the world's events.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

TO KNOW how to do thoroughly good work in any line brings a man half-way up the ladder of business success. But no further.

Unless he possesses the equally important talent of knowing how to show other people how to do good work, there he sticks. The men and women who have climbed to the top of the ladder of success were almost invariably men and women who had that second ability.

The other day I was visiting a business man who is at the head of a concern which makes two hundred thousand dollars a year. I spent the whole forenoon with him, and in that time the only call that was made upon him was to sign a few checks.

"How is it that your employees ask you so few questions?" I inquired. "I should think they would be constantly coming to you for instruction."

"Ah, Miss Cameron," he answered, "that is the secret of my success, that I have been able to pick and train men so that they won't need to come to me. I often say I am the only person in the establishment who has nothing to do. You see, I have put all my work on other shoulders. And if I hadn't been able to do that, I would still be earning a few thousand a year instead of being where I am."

You see, the business man who knows how to make himself unnecessary in a small way will soon find himself necessary in a much larger way.

Another business man told me, with regret, of a thoroughly bright and intelligent man in his employ who "can never go above three or four thousand a year because he must do all the work himself. If he could show others how to do it, we could get two or three assistants for him and enlarge the department and pay him more, but he can't."

Subsequently, when the work of the department made enlargement absolutely necessary, the man who couldn't show others how to do his work actually had to be discharged and was replaced by someone who could.

I know a very bright business woman who overworked herself to the verge of nervous prostration while all the time the concern she was working for was eager to get her an assistant.

"I'd so much rather do the work myself than show anyone else," she protested.

This is the cry not only of business men and women, but of all kinds of workers everywhere.

It is the cry, for instance, that often keeps the mother wearing herself out in the kitchen while her daughters grow up in ignorance of the things they ought to understand.

And this cry is always as selfish and wasteful as it thinks itself unselfish and saving.

If you want to become a very useful and important person in this world, you must learn to share responsibility and knowledge as well as to have them yourself.

Suggests That a Baby's Opinions of Us Would Be Interesting.

WOULDN'T it be fun," said the Candid Girl, "to know just what a baby thinks of us?"

"He doesn't think at all," chorused the married women. "That shows how much you know."

"I'm not so sure he doesn't think," replied the Candid Girl. "I've had many a baby look at me with such serious, earnest eyes that he seemed to be saying, 'I could tell you a lot, if I could only talk.' I certainly would like to know what he would say. It would be so unsophisticated, so absolutely unaffected by the world's point of view."

"But don't psychologists or people who study brains and things say that a baby is only a little animal?" asked one.

The other women looked indignant. The Candid Girl replied airily, "Maybe. But how do they know? If you think back as far as you can think about yourself, did you ever seem to be any less 'you' than you are now? Your individuality was there from full size. You only had less experiences than you have now. I think children understand a lot more than we give them credit for. When we think we are fooling them, we are only fooling ourselves. They appear not to understand because they are unfamiliar with their instrument of expression, that is all."

"Goodness!" exclaimed the women. "You think, then, if a baby could talk fluently, he could tell us a lot."

"Yes. And most interesting stuff too. I think he would put some of the things we do and say in quite a new light on us."

"For instance," went on the Candid Girl, "I think he would express some surprise at the number of kisses we shower upon him. Kissing must seem a strange performance to a baby, especially when things that might minister to his comfort are left undone, though he is kissed and hugged inordinately."

"I think he would tell us, too, that he has no specific desire to cry, that the word 'naughty' has no meaning to him, and that there is always a cause for his crying, and that the best way to stop it is to find out the cause and remove it. And that if the cause is a certain feeling of comfort that ensues when he is held a certain way, and he expresses a desire for this sensation by loud and long wails, the fault is not his, but the one's who taught him to like the sensation. It is not fair to be made to like being held or walked or rocked, and then be punished for expressing his liking. To the mind not yet accustomed to feminine reasoning, this must seem a peculiar proceeding."

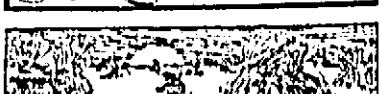

"I think, too, he would have a lot to say on the subject of clothes, especially in summer-time. Buttons and safety pins and petticoats and lace frills must seem astounding to the infant mind. He does not yet know how necessary it is to impress the world through the medium of clothes."

"I certainly would like to get six months' old baby off by himself," concluded the Candid Girl "and have the power of speech suddenly given him. I think his observations of life for those six months would be interesting. I think he would tell us more helpful truths about ourselves than we get from the pulpit."

"It would be interesting," agreed the other women musingly.

YOGHIES are pygmies still though perched on Alps. And pyramids are pyramids in tales. Each man makes his own stature, build, himself.

LUNCHEON OR SUPPER MEATS.

For dishes of this sort it is better that they should be not too heavy. Cutlets, chops, sweetbreads and meats of that kind are appropriate.

Escalloped Veal.—Mince cold cooked veal very fine. Butter a baking dish and put a thin layer of veal in the bottom, with a sprinkling of onion on top. Then add a layer of finely-powdered bread crumbs. Dot with butter and chopped parsley, then add another layer of veal, and so on until the dish is full, having buttered crumbs on top. Pour milk into the pan until the dish seems moist, and bake slowly until it is done, with an inverted pan over it to keep in the steam. Remove the pan ten minutes before serving, and let the top brown. Sprinkle with grated cheese or parsley.

Ham Croquettes.—Mince cold boiled ham very fine. Mix with an equal quantity of crumbs, cold boiled rice or mashed potato. Add a little thick cream sauce to bind; roll in egg, crumbs and fry in deep fat.

Fried Sweetbreads.—Wash and drain and dry on a cloth. Lard with strips of salt pork and cook in a buttered frying pan until the pork is crisp. Serve with tomato sauce.

Scalloped Chicken.—Take the meat, left over from boiled chicken, put in a buttered baking dish a layer of the chicken then a layer of toasted bread crumbs and hot boiled potato; moisten well with the broth thickened with flour and seasoned with salt, pepper and butter. Bake three-quarters of an hour.

Veal Chops.—Wipe the chops and make an incision and put in a few drops of onion juice and lemon juice. Dip in egg and crumbs and fry in a little butter or pork fat. Serve after seasoning well with salt and pepper.

FADS AND FASHIONS

New York, Aug. 24.—The summer season has passed its climax, and, though it is still warm and the lightest summer fashions are still seasonable, the thoughts of women begin to turn toward autumn and the surprises in fashions which it may bring.

The regular fall fashions will not be divulged until later, when the leading houses have their autumn openings, but the late summer models are full of hints of things to come and new materials and trimmings are already displayed in the wholesale houses, and even in some of the most progressive retail shops. Only a few of these new things, however, are allowed to reach the counters. The others are guarded from the public eye until the actual opening of the fall season and new importations are coming in daily.

If one may judge by the imported stuffs up to date the two-faced materials are to be much in evidence both in silks and woolsens. One can find these effects in all weights from soft, heavy, reversible cloths for motor or polo coats to the lightest of serges and the supplest of satins. Just how these materials will be used remains to be seen, though in connection with the cover-all coats the riddle is easy to read, for already stunning coats fashioned from the double faced stuffs are on view, and for that matter models in such materials were launched last spring.

Soft neutral tones often have reverse sides in brilliant color and the bright greens or blue or corals or orange shows in collars, cuffs, etc. Smart coats are made up too in one-tone polo cloth or similar material backed with white, a huge white collar being chic and becoming if not as serviceable as one of a darker hue. Checked effects are much used for the reverse side of plain ton woolsens. In some cases the whole coat is really reversible.

What has been said of the heavier coat materials applies as well to the lighter weight double-faced cloths designed for suit purposes. The color combinations in these double-faced materials are extremely varied and often strong of contrast.

Just what the autumn season will have to offer in colors cannot be stated now. It hardly seems possible that there are variations still to be run up on the primal lines, but there may be slightly different nuances of well known lines and when the season is well along one or two shades will, of course, become enormously popular.

The yellows and the various tones of beige, champagne, sand, etc., have been gradually claiming a place high on the color list this summer, and a correspondent well informed on the subject writes that at least two of the famous Paris dressmakers are taking up these colors with enthusiasm for fall uses.

Just what will be done with the tulletrains which have come into vogue during the summer no one seems to know. The material has not run its course, has not even reached the highest point of its popularity. It will undoubtedly be much worn throughout the fall, but whether it will continue in vogue during the winter is a question impossible to answer at the present time.

The use of chiffon for blouses has increased tremendously since last year. Women have learned how graceful and becoming the chiffon blouse is and how easily such a blouse may be slipped over different slips to make pleasing changes with the one coat and skirt costume. This year some of the chiffon blouses are used over foundations of metallic brocade, which is wonderfully soft and supple. The glazing brocade of the lining is so rich in itself that such blouses need no further trimming than a line of gilt or dull silver cord around the neck opening and at the edge of the sleeves. Sometimes a double row of tiny metal buttons is set down the front.

The craze for stenciling has now invaded the realm of dress, and it is impossible to foresee where it will end. Many of the new chiffon and thin silk waists for fall show stenciled patterns which are outlined with beads in very effective style. This trimming is really very charming and, of course, is much more quickly applied than the same amount of embroidery would be.

In new embroidery in fall waists very pretty effects have been achieved by working big, conventional flowers with silk floss and filling in the center with colored chiffon or dyed lace.

Most of the chiffon and silk blouses have shallow lace yokes set in the rounded or V-shaped decolletage and more and more high, boned stock collars are noted at the top of these yokes. Dutch necks will doubtless be worn in the house, but with the trim, good looking autumn street suit, a high collar around the throat is by far the smarter choice.

There is a growing tendency to discard the peasant sleeve with its clinging, but shoulder line for a close-fitting sleeve set into an arm's eye, and many of the new sleeves bell out toward the lower edge. Long shoulder lines, however, will undoubtedly continue for some time to come and some waists show shoulders extending several inches down over the arm, with the sleeve set in between shoulder and elbow in quaint, old-fashioned style. Many of the French blouses of large size material have long sleeves edged with pleated frills which fall over the hand, a picturesque, but rather audacious fashion which never finds enthusiastic favor with women who have some kind of work to do.

For fro-at-home wear with morning tailored suits the silk blouses with narrowly cut and long sleeves are immensely chic. These blouses are made of washable silk and mercerized pongee fabric which is very silky and lustrous. They are perfectly plain, with a few tucks in front to lend sufficient fullness over the bust, and narrow sleeves finished with turn-back cuffs. The high turnover collar is pinned trimly beneath a four-in-hand tie of silk.

In the early fall days the shops always show flannel shirt waists and attractive flannels by the yard for making up these waists for winter wear; but flannel waists are really too warm in our heated houses and under fur and heavy cloth coats. Also, they are too informal to be really smart with tailored suits.

Women find the fashions of this season especially charming; they afford the minimum of weight and warmth and yet are correct for all occasions. A woman generally looks well-dressed when wearing a figured foulard gown trimmed with plain-colored satin, with touches of white or ecru lace.

Fashion insistently demands that the collar and jabot shall correspond. If the collar is Irish lace the jabot must not be Chino, or vice versa. Whatever one is the other must be.

The willow plume seems to have had its day and probably will make its final exit with the summer.

GAZETTE RECEIVES LETTER FROM THE AUTO TRAVELERS

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Inman, Who Are Touring to California, Write to Gazette From Grand Island, Neb.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Inman, who departed last Wednesday for a trip across the continent to Los Angeles and San Francisco, in an automobile, have written to The Gazette from Grand Island, Nebraska, an interesting account of their trip so far. Thus far Mr. and Mrs. Inman have traveled better than one-third of the distance they are to go. Letters from other points along the route are promised.
The letter follows:

Grand Island, Neb., Aug. 22, 1911.
Dear Editor: I promised to write you the full account of our trip and there are many Janesville people who will be interested to hear how we are.
Our first bad roads were in Illinois below Rockford where we encountered heavy rains to Byron and then to Clinton, Iowa.

We left home last Wednesday morning at seven o'clock and went into camp twenty-two miles south of Clinton, Ia., the same night, running 131 miles. We pitched our tent at 5:30 and cooked our first meal, consisting of bacon and eggs and coffee. Next morning we left for Cedar Rapids and camped outside of Boone that night, running 113 miles that day.

Iowa has a great many roads we have ever seen and I think if Wisconsin citizens would make a trip by auto across Iowa they would know what good roads really are.

Iowa as well as Illinois has the Transcontinental guide boards on every corner of the trail. One cannot go wrong and the roads are simply grand.

Friday morning we started at 8:00
and camped at Ogden, a run over those good roads of 143 miles without a particle of trouble.

The next morning we heard unfamiliar sounds outside our tent and were surprised to find our next door neighbors were a band of gypsies.
Yek, the good old bird with that over-keen knowledge of fortune telling. All they asked of us was a few matches.

Saturday morning we broke camp at eight o'clock and had dinner in a small town among the hills, called Bass City, at 5:15 p. m. that evening
we were in Council Bluffs, 162 miles from our starting point that day. In the actual run of 162 miles of eight hours.

We traveled in the four days from Janesville to Council Bluffs, five hundred and nine miles, the actual number of hours on the road being twenty-four hours, an average rate of nearly thirteen miles per hour.

Our steepest grade was five miles
outside of the city of Council Bluffs, where we struck a fifty-three per cent grade one-half mile long. We made it on second speed.

We camped outside of Council Bluffs in a farmer's yard, the farmer keeping up the favorable impression of the state created by the roads, furnishing us all milk and cream and all we desired for two nights.

Through Illinois and Iowa the grain is all in the shock as it was left by the binder. All has been rotted, by the rains and turned black, except what was stacked and that is only about five per cent of the crop. Corn and hay are good.

We left Omaha Monday morning,
August 21, breaking camp at six o'clock, and made a run of one hundred and fifty-seven miles to Columbus. We camped five miles west of there.

Today we made a run of sixty-three miles to Grand Island through six hundred and had our first night
juncture in over seven hundred miles.
Other than the last sixty miles of deep mud the trip has been one round of pleasure. My prediction is that within the next five years roads will be laid through the Pacific coast, as all hills are being cut down and hills made for the benefit of the motor industry.

We meet many travelers like ourselves along the road and all seem to be in good spirits and with the "smile that won't wear off."

Will write to you from some place
in Wyoming in the next report.

Bride's Home in Evansville.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Evansville, Aug. 21.—The nuptials

Robert Kesson Winning of Kansas City, Missouri, were solemnized at eight o'clock Wednesday evening

terns. The Rev. W. R. Irish of Baraboo,

SECURE MOTORCYCLE
STOLEN IN MADISON

Machine Taken By Man Who Pretended To Be Deaf Mute Was Recovered Tuesday in Brownsdown.

Madison police have recovered the motorcycle stolen in Madison last Saturday by a man who pretended to be a deaf mute, but the thief is still at large. The machine was picked up Sunday afternoon by the people of that city, after the thief had deserted it.
The man, who was driving through the country at a rapid rate of speed, stopped at a farm house where the occupants were apparently gone and entered. After taking a ladder, gold watch and a man's suit of clothes he attempted to get away. As he was leaving he was seen by some people who gave chase. He mortally jumped on his motor cycle, and turning his engine on at top speed was soon lost in a cloud of dust.

In a short time, however, the spark plug blew out and the daring bad man was left stranded and he hurriedly took to the brush.

The home entered was that of an itinerant United Brethren preacher by the name of Reichold.

The motor cycle was picked up by the villagers and after a lapse of a day the Madison police were notified.

It was identified by the owner and was taken back. The thief, who appears to be an experienced hand at the business, is now wanted on two charges, one in Dane county and one in Green county.

MACHINE COMPANY TO RESUME USUAL FORCE NEXT MONTH

Following Extensive Remodeling and Repairs Janesville Machine Company Will Open Sept. 1 To Full Winter and Spring
Orders.

Following a period of comparative inactivity during which only some eighty men were employed, the Janesville Machine Company is preparing to open its plant September 1st, with the usual force to meet increased demands of trade.

During the months of July and August in which the full business season occurred, there has been time for making a number of needed improvements in the company's plant the cost of which will total a number of thousands of dollars. The floor of the engine room has been rebuilt of steel and concrete and the entire room made absolutely fire proof. In other parts of the factory needed improvements have been made and cement floors laid. New equipment in the shops has been installed including a number of new motors and other facilities for handling the work in the best possible manner.

The repairs and improvements this year have been all the more thorough,
as there is a possibility of an increase in the plant next year. The plans for this are not definite as yet and will be worked out in the future, if it is still deemed advisable to make the addition.

General Manager J. A. Craig has returned from an extended trip through the western states of Montana, Idaho and Colorado, in the interest of the company and Superintendent S. L.
Mulliken has just returned from a like trip to the Canadian Northwest into Alberta, Saskatchewan, and Winnipeg, and both report most satisfactory prospects.

In the Canadian country, where the company's plows are in demand, it is stated that many of the farmers have abandoned the implements put out by first of world reputation for the Janesville product. Although the Janesville plow is of but two and three gang it finds ready demand in that country, where the soil is being broken for the first time. Six horses are used to draw an ordinary two gang plow so tough is the soil. The Janesville plows are found in many cases to be more durable and satisfactory than the steam drawn implements.

Mr. Mulliken reports that the crops in the northwest are unparalleled in the history of that country. Wheat and flax and oats grow in abundant yields, and that with the present prices many of the farmers will be wealthy from only one crop.

Harvest hands are pouring into the country at present by the train loads,
and so fast is the country growing,
it is stated, that the traffic accommodations and the cities can not keep pace with the growth.

Mr. Craig reports favorable prospects in the western states where the Janesville plows are also in good demand. Special plows for breaking are in demand here as in Canada,
although the ordinary implements find ready demand at present to be used in the rich river lowlands. The company will be busy this fall and winter filling orders, and with the prospects for increased western trade, the outlook this season, it is stated, will show a substantial gain.

NOTES FOR CITY FARMERS ONLY.

(By H. L. RANN.)
The death rate of the average fac-turer ought to be looked into by the board of health. Something is radically wrong when a man hitches out 180 chicks
and rears only 30
of them to useful
and honored lives.
The farmer gets too
much codding, a Spurman course of treatment, a canshaking of cold
baths, a dry massage with a rough towel and a breakfast of prime ribs of beef, an lus, will enable a gentleman to let to whip the champion of the honor in four rounds. This treatment is severe, but it will whip up a young rooster with muscles like a blacksmith and the chesty demeanor of a man who has just topped the slot machine for a straight flush.

All attempts to improve upon the old-fashioned Early Rose potato, which was as mealy as a fat pig in a Turkish bath, have failed ignominously. The Early Rose will start from the tape on a hardwood floor and multiply faster than a rainbow trout.
It is harder to keep down than a pint cup of cold liver oil, and its pores are as tight as the old season who never let out of a dime without singing "God Be With You 'Till We Meet Again."

In attempting to refine the Early Rose, seed specialists have turned out a wild-tipped potato whose eyes water like a plow elder's at the dance of the Seven Vells and which is about as gratifying to the taste as a sour cream puff. You have to give it to the Early Rose.

Some people are so afraid of the theatre that they won't let their children attend a performance of "Ten Nights in a Bar Room" for fear they will become stage struck. This is a good thing. As it is, the stage is loaded up with remnants from the farm, the factory and the dredge until promotions are fewer and farther between than in the United States army.
It is harder to rid a boy of the ambition to carry a spear and wear a tin helmet for his railroad fare and two bits a day than it would be to dam the Yukon river with a hair pin. It is a toss-up which is the greater menace to each other—the stage to the farm or the farm to the stage.

The World's Islands.
The islands of the world have a total length of more than 17 times the circumference of the earth at the equator.

Wagner's minstrels, the Infinites might at the opera house in the Infinites. Cal. Wagner and his negro minstrels will delight the human element of our population. We expect the parquette to grin, the dress circle to smile, and the box to pour forth the essence of which will be dived up behind the footlights to their own dark heroes, rep fairly at their work. Even more, we expect the quaint portrait of "Peter the Peunilr," frescoed over the stage, will relax its features into a smile of genuine mirth as they warm to their work and send forth their irresistible smiles of Ethiopian merriment. Give them a full house.

Strength of Sympathy.
Sympathy is the grandest word in world. It overcomes evil and lengthens good; it dissolves real-ties, melts the hardest hearts, and wins out the better part of human nature.—George Moore.

For several years we have been experimenting with a carrier that would do away with some of the objections of the old style carrier, and also have some of the advantages of the pneumatic elevator. In the Enclosed Steel Carrier we have accomplished this. It is built of galvanized sheet steel and is practically indestructible. It can be operated in nearly a perpendicular position. All the cut feed passes up inside and in consequence cannot be blown out of the carrier. All the buckets are carried on a single heavy chain belt and there is no side strain, and the trouble of one chain stretching more than the other that has always caused so many vexatious delays in the old style carrier is entirely done away with. The carrier buckets all returning on the top of the carrier does away with the necessity of any return supports. This in conjunction with the fact that the carrier can be set nearly perpendicular allows the buckets coming down on the outside to nearly balance the ones going up in the inside so that only the weight of the cut ensilage has to be lifted. This makes the carrier very light running. It is driven direct from the knife head shaft by means of leather belting. The tightener pulley is controlled by a spring and in the event of the carrier getting caught in any way the belt will slip or the operator can easily and quickly release the tightener and stop the carrier before any damage is done.

The hopper at the base of the carrier is so arranged that all the ensilage drops directly into the carrier doing away entirely with the unsightly pile of ensilage usually found at the base of carriers.

We can furnish an attachment for the top of the carrier to deliver at an angle. This is not necessary however, when the carrier is placed in a direct line with the window of the silo. Can be furnished in any desired length.
